Dedication to

Ronald E. Newsome

For a colorful poster, an imaginative display or an unusual illustration, the man to see is Mr. Ronald Newsome. As chairman of the graphic arts department, Mr. Newsome is noted for his talent in all phases of commercial art, as well as his earnest willingness to cooperate with both students and faculty on any school project. His extensive background in the field of art includes a previous association with the United States Rubber Co., the Diamond Match Co., free-lance magazine illustration and owning his own advertising business. Mr. Newsome has been an active member of the Advertising Club of Springfield, the Printing House Craftsmen and served as vice-president of the Springfield Artists Guild. We salute Mr. Newsome and we are proud to honor him as a member of the Trade High School faculty.

Herman E. Drewes

Mr. Herman Drewes, a man who has devoted many years to the teaching of mathematics at Trade High School, as well as professional service to the community of Springfield, is retiring this year. Mr. Drewes' career has included teaching at Van Sickle Junior High School, the Springfield Evening School and conducting defense classes during World War II. He has been involved in many community activities such as the Lions' Club, the Masons, the Melha Shrine Band and the Springfield Teachers' Credit Union, where he served as president for a number of years. We extend our thanks to Mr. Drewes for his many years of valuable service and we wish him a long and satisfying retirement on Cape Cod.

IN MEMORIAM

DENNIS J. BRUNTON

Two years ago, Trade High School mourned the death of its assistant principal, Dennis J. Brunton. He was an exceptional man, dedicated to his work.

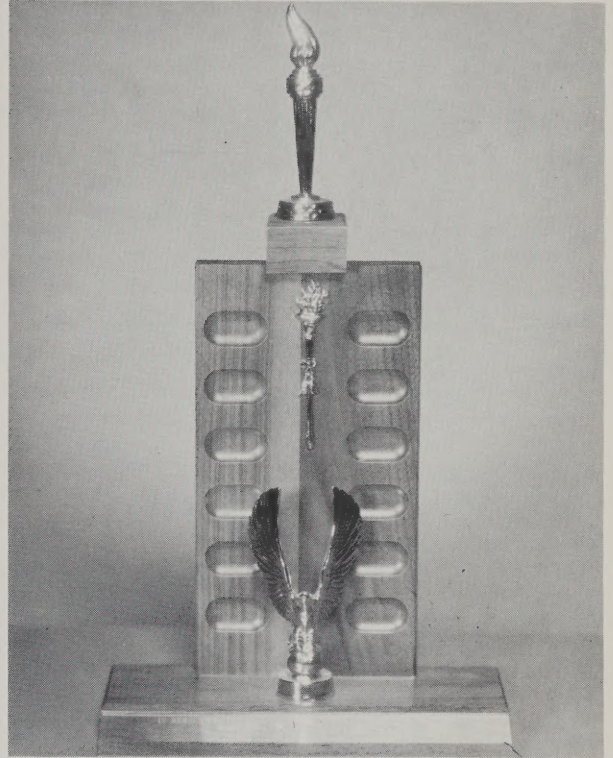

He was born in Springfield and remained here all his life. He entered the army to render his services in World War I. He became a teacher here, at Springfield Trade High School in 1924. After twenty-six years of teaching, he was elected assistant principal of the school which also gave him the responsibility of principal and director of Springfield Evening Adult Trade School.

He was marshal for many parades and is held responsible for the placement of flags on the graves of deceased veterans.

Mr. Brunton spent most of his life doing things for other people. He won recognition for his outstanding service in education and community service. He did much to improve our school, and neither this man nor his works will ever be forgotten.

A trophy in his memory is hereby presented to the school. It is engraved as follows: "In memory of Dennis J. Brunton from the Class of 1967."

In the short period during which Billy Hill was a member of our class he made a noteworthy contribution to this group. We know that the influence of this young man upon medical science and the people of this area has been due to the work of God, and represents His way of using the greatest of tragedies for the most good. As much as we wanted Billy to live, God felt he had suffered greatly and that he had accomplished enough in his short time to be called to a place of peace and rest.

Let us not forget the example Billy held for us: the will to live. When you feel that God has left you, try and display the spirit that Billy had and you will find strength.

May we all have this faith to endure our destiny.

IN MEMORIAM

Private Calvin R. Wilson, nineteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Wilson of 101 Hampden Road, East Longmeadow was killed in action in Vietnam on January 20, 1967. Details of his death are not available.

President's Message

By - Donald R. Socha

As we the Class of 1967 of Springfield Trade High School, come to the end of our high school days, we suddenly realize that the administration and teachers of our school deserve our sincere thanks for their diligent efforts. We would not be able to go into the world of today without the specialized skills and knowledge we have developed for success.

We especially appreciate the help of our class advisors, Mrs. Kramer, Miss Murphy, Mr. Howes, Mr. Hutcheons, Mr. Gulluni and the many others who have assisted and guided us throughout our years at Springfield Trade High School.

Now is the time when we really appreciate our parents. It was their encouragement and assistance which helped us through our high school days. Without their love and patience it would have been impossible to have obtained the knowledge and skills we now possess.

The time has come for us to correlate our knowledge and abilities which enable us to confront the serious problems of today. In this time of crisis, we must be ready to face life with an intelligent outlook and with a patriotic spirit. Our leadership will help determine the future state of our country and will contribute to the governing of our modern day world.

With these ideas clearly in mind, we resolve to go forth into the world of work, determined to reflect credit upon our parents, Trade High School and ourselves.

CLASS SONG

Three Years Here at Trade High
(Tune: Three Coins in a Fountain)

Three years here at Trade High
Each one full of happiness;
Our first year here at Trade High
Was our year for making friends.
Three years we have worked hard;
Hours of study now are past.
Through soon we'll be leaving,
Friendships true we know will last.
Which years did we find the best?
Which one held the most success?
This last day together
We must say to all our friends
Good bye - Good luck forever
We pray our friendship never ends.
Now farewell
To Trade High
"Sixty - seven."

By Gloria Houle

BIRTH IS ONLY THE BEGINNING!

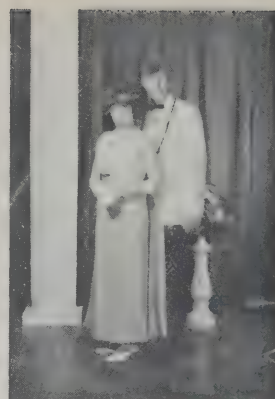

Life is many things.
It is a blessing of faith,
A gift of knowledge,
A warmth of love.
Forget not, throughout life, the ashes
To which a human body turns.
This is a reality, forsaken by
The eyes of many.
We may often wonder if the sun still shines,
And the rivers still flow,
When the climax of death
Extends its grasping touch.
We, as students, appreciate the feeling
Of achievement that accompanies
Our ever-growing knowledge.
This is a flame that will
Burn endlessly in a changing world.
All nations,
All people,
All goodness,
Run in harmony with this feeling.

ARC WELDING INSTRUCTION COURSE (EXERCISES)

21 When welding on a 1" single groove butt joint in the vertical position, welding up and using a 20° bevel, deposit the weld metal by using four layers, see Fig. 4. For the first pass, use a 3/32" diameter electrode

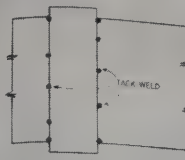

Position	Thickness of Joint	Angle of Face
Overhead	0-40	90-120
Horizontal	0-30	75-90
Flat	0-30	120-150
Vertical	120-150	90-120

The horizontal reference plane is taken to be always below the weld under consideration. Inclination of axis is measured from the horizontal reference plane toward the vertical. Angle of rotation of face is measured from a line perpendicular to the axis of the weld and lying in a vertical plane containing the axis. The reference position (P) of rotation of the face is the position in the direction opposite to point "P".

Fig. 1 Position of weld

intervals to allow the molten puddle to solidify and stop any tendency to run down, see Fig. 5a.

The arc should never be broken when this technique is used but should be returned to the crater immediately to secure a good contour of bead weld deposit. It is important that the electrode be held at approximately 90° or horizontal to the vertical weld being made as the tendency of the electrode coating to "fingering" will be noticeably bad if held in any other position, see Fig. 5b. Use 3/32" electrodes for the first two layers. Wave the electrode rapidly across the joint, shortening the arc when passing over the center of weld, then lengthen the arc slightly when adjacent to side of "V" and hesitate for a few seconds to insure good fusion, see Fig. 5a. Occasionally, better results can be obtained if the electrode is tilted up and away from the center at each side as is done when making the first pass. This is particularly true when using a 3/16" electrode on rather thick sections, see Fig. 5b. Running up on either side will keep the molten metal from becoming too fluid, enabling the student to have better control

Fig. 5b. Excessive "fingering" will cause arc to line down of the deposited layer. A simple description would be a box-shaped weave running up on the sides intermittently. Be sure to chip out and clean each layer before depositing the next. The same procedure should be used on a single bevel butt joint in the vertical position.

When welding single "V" groove or single bevel groove butt joints in the horizontal position, bead

CLASS HISTORY

In September, 1964, we, the Class of 1967, entered Trade High School. Our first days brought many challenges and apprehensions. Although everything seemed confusing at first, our teachers guided us skillfully toward an acceptance of our new environment.

1964 - 1965

During the first week in October, 1964, we enjoyed an orientation assembly which presented the many sports and activities sponsored for the benefit and participation of the students at Trade. At this assembly, Mr. Garvey, our principal, formally welcomed us to the school.

The Trade High School Student Council sponsored a get-acquainted dance for new students, at which time we got to know our classmates a little better.

On May 13, 1965, the student body was grieved to hear the sad news of the sudden death of Dennis J. Brunton, our assistant principal. Although we had known Mr. Brunton only briefly, he was to us the symbol of a great human being.

Our first class elections were held during the latter part of May. The candidates campaigned vigorously. At an assembly prior to voting day, each candidate for a junior class office had the opportunity to convince his fellow students that he was the best suited for the particular office for which he was running. The students elected to serve the class were: Donald Socha, president; Mark Drugan, vice-president; Marguerite Rivard, secretary; William Clark, treasurer; Elizabeth Duffy, girl marshal; and Kenneth Theriault, boy marshal.

1965 - 1966

Mr. Gulluni and Mrs. Kramer became our new class advisors. Class officers held regular meetings each Tuesday in Room 207.

Field Day, an annual event at Trade High, was held late in September. With the spirit of victory in our hearts, we approached the field of battle. We struggled through the many events and gained a surprising measure of success against the seniors.

Under the direction of Nelson Company and our class advisors, a new class ring was designed. This is an accomplishment in which the Class of 1967 takes great pride.

To earn money for the class treasury, a movie was scheduled for January, 1966. The Misadventures of Merlin Jones was thoroughly enjoyed by an audience of nine hundred.

On March 28, 1966, the students and faculty at Trade High School felt sorrow once more when one of our class members, Billy Hill died after a long serious illness. Billy had prized dearly a class ring which had been given to him by his classmates.

Plans for a junior prom were discussed, but unfortunately this goal was not realized.

In May senior hats were distributed. We now realized that we would soon be the student leaders of the undergraduates at Trade.

The day into which had gone many hours of hard work finally arrived. On May 31st, the juniors gathered at High Meadow in Granby, Connecticut for a picnic. What a great time everyone had! How could we miss .. baseball, volleyball, horseback riding, badminton .. and all the food we could eat.

Once again came the time for class elections. The students were aware of their responsibility to elect candidates who would represent them with pride and dignity. Those elected to lead the class of 1967 were: Donald Socha, president; Mark Drugan, vice-president; Marguerite Rivard, secretary; William Clark, treasurer; Venise Gagon, girl marshal; and Ronald Wilkinson, boy marshal. Sandra Russell and Charles Baermeier were elected student editors of the 1967 yearbook.

1966 - 1967

As Mrs. Kramer was teaching elsewhere, Miss Murphy was appointed as senior advisor in September, 1966 to replace her. Mr. Gulluni continued his guidance of our interests in meeting with us early in the year. We were eager to start right in and establish our position of leadership. Again, the first important fall event was the annual field day. This year, as stalwart seniors, benefitting from our last year's experience, the Class of 1967 proved to be the winner in the day's events, even though the juniors made a fine showing for their class.

Lilies of the Field, a movie presented by the senior class, provided excellent entertainment for the student body and, at the same time, contributed handsomely to our treasury.

An ambitious project in which the entire senior class participated was the candy sale. The proceeds from this sale helped to pay for many of the activities sponsored by the senior class.

The Senior Class Luncheon was held in the school tea room in March, 1967. The students enjoyed the delicious food prepared by their classmates and other members of the foods and catering department.

Time passed quickly. There was a rush by the members to prepare the date for the yearbook. Caps and gowns were ordered.

Before we knew it, April was upon us. It was time to make the final preparations for that long awaited day — the Senior Class Banquet and Prom. It was held at Shaker Farms in Westfield on the night of April 27, 1967. The theme of the prom, "Three Coins in a Fountain," was illustrated exquisitely by a sparkling fountain and Roman pillars. The decorations made the night even more exciting. The food was delicious; the music memorable. This occasion was the highlight of our three years at Trade.

A week after the prom, the seniors were whisked off to High Meadow for a fun-filled picnic.

Class Day came too soon. On May 12th, clad in our caps and gowns, we marched down the center aisle of our auditorium. The Trade High School Shield, symbol of our responsible leadership as seniors, was handed down to the junior class, whose members will now take our places. Our hearts were happy, but our eyes filled with tears as we walked proudly out of our auditorium for the last time.

Commencement exercises were scheduled for June 19, 1966 in Springfield Municipal Auditorium. Our parents, relatives and friends watched with great pride as we received our diplomas — the ultimate goal of our high school career.

These memorable events which have occurred during our three years at Trade High School will never be forgotten and will always be held close to our hearts.
